Additional Information

Since 1997, a group of USDA Forest Service employees have provided a variety of services at competitive prices within the agency. They are part of a program that is rather unique within the federal government, the Enterprise Program. Though the program began as an experiment, it has been a permanent, national program since 2006.

The Enterprise Program (EP) is an agile branch of the USDA Forest Service that complements and enhances the agency by offering an extensive range of services. Because the EP does not receive any appropriated funds, it is a self-sustaining agency program that thrives by performing at a high level while fully recovering operational costs. This also means you, the client, pay for what you need as we seek to provide you the superior service at the lowest cost possible. Whether a funded part-time support position or a one-time project, our team will work with you developing a plan of action that meets your needs. Although the EP (est. 1997) originally served only the Forest Service, EP now provides services to other federal, state, city, and county agencies.
